

Newmanor Law - Who We Are

1. Everyone in our team has a voice and is given the opportunity to share ideas and opinions.
2. We are great at collaborating and are always willing to help one another.
3. We take the time to build good relationships with clients and tend to work with the same clients repeatedly, so we can build rapport with them and they get to know us.
4. We take the time to find out what the client values rather than taking a 'one size fits all' approach.
5. We are flexible and agile with how we approach things and are not scared to change our processes if something can be done more efficiently.
6. We embrace technology but still ensure this is in line with what is best for each client.
7. We have good cohesion and collaboration within our team – this enables us to provide a good, continuous service to the client (as opposed to working in silos where a client depends on one lawyer and no one else in the team is briefed on the matter). We support each other on deals.
8. We are personable and relaxed – we believe that clients want to work with people, not robots!
9. We are a young firm and team – not afraid to do things differently or to break the traditional law firm mould, investing in new systems and processes.

Newmanor Law - Who We Are

10. Our flexible working and autonomy lead to happier staff who want to support the firm in growing and succeeding.
11. We are a diverse bunch of individuals – we build relationships internally and externally.
12. We are collaborative – both with each other internally and with our clients to get a deal one. We have the whole “deal” mentality – we see transactions in the same way as our clients do.
